

After 12 weeks, Breast self-examination practice (BSEP) was improved in the experimental group who received the culture based breast health education program, while there was no change in BSEP in the control group who received usual care only.