Interventions

1494 men were randomly selected from a population of 9026 men aged 50-69 (the total male population of that age in the area).

Information was issued through local media and an invitation to screening sent to selected individuals.

Screening was conducted every third year from 1987-1996. Digital rectal examination only was performed in 1987 and 1990. PSA testing (cut-off level 4 ng/ml) was added in 1993 and 1996.

The total duration of follow up was 15-20 years.

Primary outcome(s)

Prostate Cancer mortality, determined by obtaining data from the Swedish Central Death Register on date and cause of death. Cause of death was also checked in the South-East Region Prostate Cancer Register.

Key secondary outcome(s)

1. Cost effectiveness, determined when twelve year survival data were accessible
2. Acceptance, assessed by questionnaires immediately after the screening examinations
3. Diagnostic accuracy

Further information on the outcomes and methods of assessment may be found in the publications below.
